Cloud Dome. Is it something from the beauty parlor, a futurist fashion statement, a Woody Allen dunce cap? Can you wear it to the beach to keep out deadly rays? No no no, this ingenious gadget might very well turn out to be your digital camera's best friend—especially if you photograph objects and jewelry for display at eBay auctions. Attach your camera to the Plexiglas Cloud Dome and shoot any object with perfect ambient lighting... no ugly shadows to obscure shape and texture, the Cloud Dome spreads the warmth of natural light over collectibles, toys, flowers, fossils, small high tech products, or anything else that will fit beneath it. You'll soon discover the joy of neutral light. Say good-bye to hot spots and color shift. And put away that clumsy tripod—the Cloud Dome serves to brace the camera for that perfect overhead shot. No steady hand, flash, nor studio lights necessary. www.clouddome.com

Scorpion Hand Vac. Dirt, dust and grime...To your PC, they're the fleas and ticks of life. They may belong to the non-living world, but these mites wreak misery on machines. They clog and cloud and block cooling. Little by little, the sum of their effects can eat right into your wallet. The simple way to protect digital goods from such assault is by frequent cleaning. Using canned air will expel dust, but it takes a vacuum to do the real job. Enter the Dirt Devil Scorpion Hand Vac; an office dust-zapper without peer. With a nice long cord and handy shoulder strap (and no icky bag), it offers plug and play ease. Just remove the dirt cup after use and empty out the filter. This sleek black gadget works on dirt like a Bermuda Triangle. It's portable and palm-powered; a 5 amp 600 watt whirlwind that's far more versatile than an upright. And it packs the accessories needed for tackling tight spaces where dirt camps out: crevice tools, hose and upholstery brush. Pull out all the stops on grime with the super Scorpion Hand Vac. www.dirtdevil.com

Toshiba 1.8-Inch Type II PC Card Hard Disk Drive. Speaking of storage.... it's time to think mobile. Removable, high capacity storage in the palm of your hand.
